INQUEST ADJOURNS AFTER SESSION UNTIL MONDAY

Inability to Determine Speed of Auto Which Killed Little Girl Yesterday Causes Delay in Case.

Because the idea of the witness examined differed so widely in regard to the speed of the car which struck Modesta Herrera yesterday afternoon, with fatal results, the coroner's inquest held today by Judge W. W. McMillen adjourned until Monday.

A large number of witnesses were examined, none of whom agreed on the exact speed of the car. It was variously called "fast," "awful fast," "slow," "15 miles an hour," and "8 to 10 miles an hour." Some witnesses swore the car struck the little girl in front of Kerlitz jewelry store, others that it was 10 feet from the crossing at First street. T. B. Stevens identified as the driver another witness. When asked again, he said:

"I thought that was the man, but was not sure."

The witnesses introduced by District Attorney George S. Koch were as follows: Dr. C. A. Frank, who attended the girl; Jose Antonio C. de Huca, bystander; L. B. Stevens, a special officer, who swore the driver of the machine was "sawing around and not attending to his business"; Dennis Chaves of the city health office; an uncle of the girl, named J. C. Mooney; Pedro Barboza, a bystander, and A. F. Perea.

Young Schult, driver of the car, was represented in the inquest by Attorney A. H. Robertson, and the district attorney was present and took a leading part in questioning the witness.

George LaPrak, a passenger in the car, was introduced at the request of the driver of the car.

From the evidence, it appeared that the car driven by Schult was in use as a public conveyance, and that it had come west on Central avenue, starting south at the observation where the carnival people have one of their attractions, and had remained about noon crossing First street, that the horn had blown continuously while crossing the street and once before at the railroad track. It also appeared that the little girl had run away from the car and then turned and ran directly in front of it again. Two witnesses swore that Schult turned the car away from the little girl, but that she ran in front of it again.

The little girl, Modesta Herrera, was the daughter of an employee at the Alvarado, and was nine years old. She was struck at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and lived until 5:20, being unconscious only part of the time. Dr. Frank, who attended her, said at the inquest this morning that death had been due to cerebral hemorrhage and to shock. No bones were broken, nor was there any external evidence of injury except bruises and one cut back of her ear. The bruises were confined to the head, face and shoulders.

The accident took place in front of Storger's hotel at First street and Central avenue. Leslie Schult, son of M. L. Schult, owner of the car, was driving west on Central, and made every effort to avoid striking the young girl, but after hitting continued and ran back and forth before she was hit, was taken into a nearby drug store immediately after the accident, and from there to the office of Dr. Frank, from which she was removed to the hospital in an ambulance when she appeared to rally from the shock. She died just as the ambulance was entering the hospital grounds.

Funeral Tomorrow Morning.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning from the family home at Alvarado.

OYSTER LUNCH AND A BIG SUPPER

Ladies of Christian Church
Take Novel Means of Raising Funds for Church Purposes. Tomorrow Night.

The ladies of the Christian church will serve an oyster lunch at the Houston restaurant, Fourth and Central avenues, tomorrow at noon and an oyster supper at the same place to-morrow night. Oysters in every conceivable style will be served, so that all tastes may be met. There will be oysters fried, stewed, shelled, sauced, topped in cocktails, in pies, in everything else that can be made from the tasty morsels. A large crowd is expected to attend and provision for taking care of them has been made, so that there will be a minimum of crowding.

David P. Ward, Sunday school missionary for the American Baptist Publ. Association in New Mexico, has returned from a ten days' trip through the state. Sunday will be off at the Baptist church to assist in Sunday school services. The teachers' training school which Mr. Ward started, will meet next Tuesday evening at 7:30.

BURSUM IN FIRST AUTHORIZED INTERVIEW OF CAMPAIGN TELLS WHAT HE HOPES TO ACCOMPLISH

Provided Provisions of Republican Platform, Adopted at Las Vegas, Are Carried Out Great Prosperity for New Mexico Will Be Assured. Republican Party Should Triumph Because the Issues On Which the Campaign is Being Fought Out Will Determine Whether State Is to Have Stable Government, Based On Equal Rights to all, Or Whether First Administration Shall Be Radical, Keeping Capital and Development Out for Fear of Change of Laws With Every Change in the Weather.

(Special Correspondence to the Herald.)

TUCSON, N. M., Oct. 12.—Speaking for the enforcement of the laws without fear or favor, for a stable government that will assure honest investors in New Mexico protection and at the same time give protection to the man who toils, Huon O. Bursum, candidate for governor on the Republican ticket, in New Mexico today gave an interview in which he outlined briefly his reasons for advocating the election of the Republican ticket and the organization of the first state government in the Republican party.

Mr. Bursum was requested by a Herald correspondent to give an interview. He talked freely on the issues of the campaign as viewed by himself and the party he represents. Mr. Bursum said:

"When I accepted the nomination before the Las Vegas convention, I accepted the Republican platform adopted by the convention. It is a good platform, and it is a platform which, if its provisions are carried out, will insure an era of prosperity in this great new state that will be greater than any in our history."

I consider it of the greatest importance that in this first state election the Republican party should triumph because the issues on which the campaign is being fought out will determine whether New Mexico is to organize a stable government, based on equal rights to all, or whether the new state shall be launched upon her first administration with new and untried ideas, with her constitution open to amendment at every whim of a majority of the minority and with labor seeking employment and capital afraid to invest within our borders.

It is a serious matter to New Mexico that with the advent of statehood there should also come up a influx of people. We must have deposits of valuable ores, and capital alone can develop our mines. Millions of dollars more of assessable wealth is ours the very day that these great mines are opened, and under our changing territorial form of government capital could never be induced to enter our mineral fields as we would have so greatly desired."

A matter that is greater in importance to us than all our other assets and resources is the future of our children. Our schools must be advanced ahead of all else in New Mexico. Our State university, our Agricultural college, our Military institution—one of the best in the nation, our school of mines, our normal schools and the institutions for the blind and the deaf and dumb—all these are of vital importance to us and we must spare no expense and no effort that will tend to improve and up build them. We have in our state many children in rural districts and they should be aided in every way to get an education."

This I realize deeply myself, because at 12 years of age I was thrown upon the world, fatherless and motherless, uneducated and penniless. I do not care to enter into the details of a life that was countless except for a terrible struggle against about every adversity a young American can meet.

Even since I attained manhood I have studied and worked to improve my own education and I know what an education means to the average child, and I intend, if elected governor, to see that every child in New Mexico, so far as within my power I can do so, gets an education and a lift over the mud that I found so hard and so slow to travel.

I am before the people of New Mexico today in a man to man basis. I have only contempt for those enemies who maliciously are opposing me. I have respect and good will for those minded, who are opposing me honestly. I have no political enemies to punish and no political friends to reward. If I am elected governor of New Mexico I am going to show my administration that the attacks persistently made upon my honor and integrity are untrue and mere slanders.

This is absolutely the Republican party's stand on the question of public lands. If I am elected, I will open into the courts as I am apt to do with, as I have anything to do with it, will be adhered to.

New Mexico, under Republican regime, has inaugurated a system of good roads. We have been expending every effort and every resource possible to build a system of good roads in New Mexico. We need good roads as badly as we need railroads or other means of transportation. We have rich mines, rich agricultural districts, fine fruit districts, some of the greatest hot springs and health summer resorts in the United States and good roads mean that they will be opened up and that they will draw the people that now frequent power but better advertised places.

The great scenic highway, which will cross New Mexico to El Paso, is being built as rapidly as our present resources will permit, and it will be my ambition to forward the project as far as I may and to complete it if possible.

There is a matter which has been injected into this campaign which is also of great importance to New Mexico. It is the so-called blue ballot, or the proposition to amend the constitution. As at present drafted, the constitution was ratified in New Mexico by over 18,000 majority. The document has been carefully passed upon by people in all walks of life, was built by representatives of the various political beliefs—a majority of them Republicans—in the new state, and the provisions undoubtedly give equal justice to all citizens and to New Mexico of who ever shall use here.

To undertake at this time to alter that constitution by a provision which

ALBUQUERQUE GETS SURE THING CINCH ON FIRST MONEY IN TOURNAMENT

Santa Fe Bites the Dust for the Locals, 14 to 4; Bailey Pitches Good Ball for the Grays.

WEAVER MAKES GOOD WITH THE INDICATOR

Lefty Bailey was too smart for the sluggers from Santa Fe this afternoon, and his splendid work resulted in Albuquerque getting a double rived cinch on first money in the baseball tournament. The final score was 14 to 4.

In one inning only did Bailey experience the slightest trouble. That was in the first, before he had gotten fairly into his stride. In that inning Santa Fe got off to a healthy lead of three runs, but their joy was short-lived. Bailey settled down, and for the remainder of the game had them lying down and rolling over for him. Only one hit was made off the delivery of Lefty, after the first inning. Incidentally, ten sluggers from Santa Fe bit the dust before his twists and benders.

Among the features of the game were a two-hopper by Weeks in the sixth inning which brought two men across the plate, a sensational one-handed pluckup by Koerner of a low throw-in, but which saved a run, and the all-around work of B. Smith, who besides catching a steady game accumulated fine singles out of an amazing times at bat.

Umpire Weaver got away better today than he did yesterday, and had no trouble. His work was of the glib-edged variety and gave no cause for any complaint as to his decisions.

The score:

Incendiary Fires Burn at Native Quarters All Night; Massacre of Manchu Families Adds to Horror.

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire)

HANKOW, China, Oct. 12.—This city was a scene of desolation today. All night incendiary fires burned throughout the native quarters and it was a night of terror for the populace. There was a massacre of Manchu families which left large numbers of dead and to add to the tragedy all the prisons were opened and the inmates released.

The revolutionary organization is making every effort to restore order, and it is announced that rioters wherever caught will be severely dealt with.

The revolutionary army is strongly entrenched in Wu Chang and Han Yang, with guns mounted in commanding positions. Since the capture of Han Yang armed there has been no solicitude regarding the supply of ammunition, and the leaders declare they can cope with any opposition.

Parties of government troops which are arriving here are not promptly recognized, who endeavor to persuade them to join the movement. If they refuse they are allowed to withdraw.

Rev. J. J. Rooney, pastor of the First Baptist church, took a dozen members of the Junior Boys' club out for a camping trip on the mesa this morning, returning late this evening. A heavy load of tables and camping utensils was piled on a stock little burro, the Rocky mountain canary being decorated with patriotic colors. The lads spent a most enjoyable day in the hills.

SOLDIER-MUSICIAN IS SHOT AND KILLED TODAY

(By Evening Herald A. P. Leased Wire)

CHEVENING, Wyo., Oct. 12.—Musical Ernest Lawrence of the Ninth Cavalry at Fort Russell was shot and instantly killed by Raymond Hall, a discharged Ninth Cavalry soldier, this morning at a dance in this city. The touchy arms of Hall taking the part of two women who were quarreling. Hall made his escape, but officers are close on his tracks.
